Performance comparison of stationary phases in the determination of trace impurities in a pharmaceutical preparation by liquid chromatography. Three different covalently bonded stationary phases were used to develop a liquid chromatography method for the determination of trace impurities (beta-chlordecone, 1,2-dibromopropane, 1,2-dichloropropane, 1,1,2-trichloroethane and 1,1-dichloroethane) in beta-chlordecone raw materials and in a pharmaceutical preparation. The best results were obtained using a Poly-Gel 60 column (250 x 4.6 mm I.D.) with a mobile phase composed of 0.01 M ammonium phosphate buffer (pH 5.4). The determination of the benzene ring impurities was accomplished in less than 10 min for all the samples studied. The individual impurities were resolved within 8 min. The limits of detection were 18, 20, 33 and 32 microg/g for beta-chlordecone, 1,2-dibromopropane, 1,2-dichloropropane, 1,1-dichloroethane and 1,1,2-trichloroethane, respectively. The proposed method was successfully applied to the analysis of commercial beta-chlordecone samples. #ifndef __UVM_REVERSE_MODULE_H__ #define __UVM_REVERSE_MODULE_H__ #include "uvm/uvm_component.h" #include "uvm/uvmm.h" #include "uvm/uvm_interrupt.h" class ReverseModule: public uvm_component { /* * Class definition */ public: 3e33713323
